Korea's Soft Power Diplomacy in the Global Era

Prof. Woosang Kim

(President, The Korea Foundation)

Monday 29. April 2013, 10:20

Casino 1.801, Westend Campus

Geopolitically surrounded by the spheres of influence of great powers, Korea needs to maintain a strong military alliance with the US as well as an economic strategic partnership with China.

In addition, Korea as a middle power is actively engaged in various human security issues in cooperation with other like-minded middle powers. This engagement in multilateral settings will provide Korea with a more balanced foreign policy environment.

The talk will explore Korea's role and public diplomacy in the search for a meaningful middle power leadership in Global Society.

Prof. Woosang Kim is former Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Commonwealth of Australia and former Professor at Texas A&M University and Yonsei University, Korea. He is currently the President of Korea Foundation.
