announce the

Symposium Geoscience meets Physics – Visions for the new century

Saturday, May 3, 2014 from 9am-6pm
Geoscience Centre, Lecture Hall

The Symposium focuses on physical and chemical processes in the Earth's mantle and deeper crust. Outstanding international researchers have been invited to give forward-looking and trendsetting contributions. The talks will address a scientific audience from both geosciences and physics and present the highlights and exciting future perspectives of the current field of research.

There will be sufficient time for fruitful discussions; the specific program will be announced soon.
